

IB Assessment Information for May 2020 Exams

Dear IB Students and Parents,

Students enrolled in IB classes have the option of taking formal exams in May. Depending on which university a student plans on attending and what scores they earn, this can translate into significant tuition savings. For example, if a student earns a 5 or higher in an SL or HL class and applies to an Oregon university, he/she can save anywhere from approximately $552-$1,104 for SL subjects and $1,104-$2,760 for HL subjects. Each university department determines how it will award credit for IB results. Students applying to private universities or universities outside of Oregon should research how each university rewards credit for IB results.

During the month of October, students should talk to their teachers about their performance if they are unsure of whether they should pay for the external assessments or not.

The 2020 IB exams will be held during the month of May according to the following schedule. Please note that exams run in the morning and afternoon and dates are not flexible.
