

A PATHWAY TO AN OSU DEGREE IN CENTRAL OREGON

Degree Partnership Program (DPP)

Students don't fit one mold, that's why there is more than one path to earning a degree from Oregon State University – Cascades.

The Degree Partnership Program offered by Central Oregon Community College and OSU-Cascades allows students seeking a bachelor's degree to be jointly admitted and enrolled at both schools.

DPP Benefits

- Students experience the best of both schools
- Financial aid and scholarship benefits are combined
- Additional course offerings and choice of times
- Guidance to stay on track toward an OSU degree while fulfilling lower division courses at COCC
- A strong connection to COCC and OSU-Cascades faculty
- Lower tuition

DPP Admission Requirements

- 24 + quarter credit hours (16 + semester hours) with a 2.25 - 2.49 transfer GPA; completed college-level writing (WR 121, English Composition) and college-level math (Algebra: MTH 105 or 111), with C- grade or better
- 24 + quarter credit hours (16 + semester hours) with 2.50+ transfer GPA; completed college-level writing (WR 121, English Composition) with C- or better required
- Same second language requirement for First Year Admission (unless graduated high school before spring 1997)

DPP and Financial Aid, Scholarships

Students should include both COCC (003188) and OSU (003210) school codes when completing the FAFSA or ORSAA. After admission, students will select a home school, the school that will administer their financial aid. Students awarded the Oregon Promise are encouraged to work closely with both financial aid offices to determine their home school.

Degree-seeking OSU-Cascades students may take COCC coursework to fulfill degree requirements at OSU-Cascades. This means students can receive OSU-Cascades scholarship support when enrolled full-time (12 credits) between the two institutions, with at least six OSU-Cascades credits.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Who is the ideal candidate for the DPP?

The ideal candidate is a student who plans to attend OSU-Cascades, or who wants additional flexibility to access courses and resources at both institutions.

If I want to take advantage of DPP do I have to apply to both schools?

Apply to OSU-Cascades, selecting both the DPP student option and COCC as the partner school. Following your successful application, you can register for classes at COCC and OSU-Cascades.

What happens once I have been admitted?

Once admitted, DPP students follow the Next Steps for OSU-Cascades, pay their Advance Tuition Deposit and register for a START session, OSU-Cascades' orientation. At START, students meet with their academic advisor and register for COCC or OSU-Cascades classes.

I was already accepted to OSU-Cascades, can I still add DPP?

Yes. Please contact OSU-Cascades Enrollment Services at 541-322-3100.
